TRUTH AND RECONCILIATION COMMISSION'S 94 CALLS TO ACTION

OVERVIEW

In its final report the Truth and Reconciliation Commission of Canada (TRC) called on governments, educational and religious institutions, civil society groups and all Canadians to take action on the 94 Calls to Action.

UPDATE

To fulfill Call to Action #53, an Interim Board was created in December 2017 to establish a National Council for Reconciliation (NCR). On June 12, 2018, the Interim Board, chaired by Grand Chief Wilton Littlechild, recommended an independent, multigenerational institution to monitor, evaluate and report on reconciliation, and act as a catalyst for innovative thought, dialogue and action. This institute would be financially independent and separate from the Government and would be governed by a Board of Directors and supported by an Executive Director and staff.

The Assembly of First Nations (AFN) provided preliminary comments to the Interim Board on the structure of the NCR prior to the release of the June 2018 report. The AFN suggested the voices of the survivors must be reflected in the NCR's work, and that the United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples (UN Declaration) should be the framework for the NCR to measure government commitments.

On May 3, 2018, Crown-Indigenous Relations launched a progress report on a government website. There have been some significant commitments from Canada in areas such as child welfare and language revitalization. The AFN is currently engaged in advancing many of the 94 Calls to Action.

NEXT STEPS

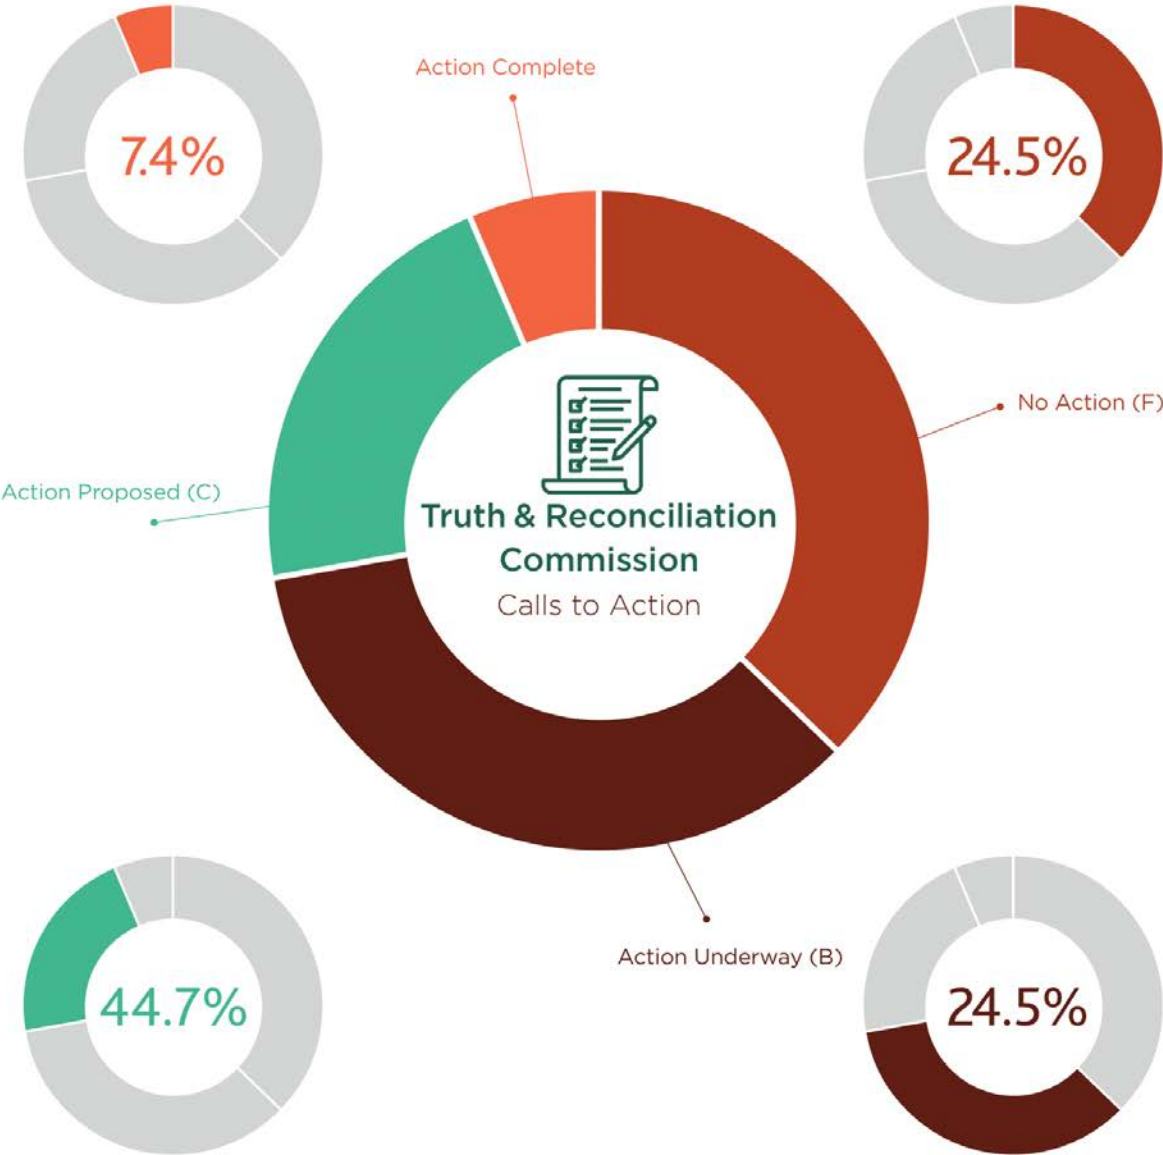

The AFN will continue to monitor progress and advocate for full and meaningful implementation of all the Calls to Action. Commitments and action are needed particularly in the areas of justice, equity in the legal system and missing children.

In its final report the Truth and Reconciliation Commission of Canada (TRC) called on governments, educational and religious institutions, civil society groups and all Canadians to take on the 94 Calls to Action (CTA). As per Resolution 01/2015, Support for the Full Implementation of the Truth and Reconciliation Commission of Canada's Calls to Action, Chiefs-in-Assembly call on Federal, Provincial, Territorial and Municipal Governments to take immediate steps to fully implement all the Calls to Action. Resolution 01/2015 also mandates the AFN Secretariat to report back to the Chiefs-in-Assembly by way of a progress report.¹
